

HOW-TO GUIDE:

A Practical Guide to Turning Ideas Into Action

Co-Driving Regional Transformation Through Community-First Climate Justice

↳ Good Energy Collaborative: Youth Council

The Youth Council of the Good Energy Collaborative brings together young people from Chester and Philadelphia to lead community-based climate justice initiatives rooted in local priorities.

Council members co-design and run environmental justice education programs, Solar Agriculture labs, and public Environmental Justice Walks while gaining hands-on experience in renewable energy and organizing. Through leadership development and real neighborhood projects, young people are building the skills and relationships needed to co-create healthier, more equitable communities.

Replicate This!

How To Get Started

- 1 Start with relationships.
- 2 Identify a focus area.
- 3 Form a youth leadership team.
- 4 Co-design programming.
- 5 Partner locally.
- 6 Secure funding.
- 7 Launch a hands-on project.
- 8 Provide leadership opportunities.
- 9 Document and share impact.
- 10 Sustain and grow.

AMERICAN CLIMATE LEADERSHIP AWARDS
Celebrating Action from Local to National

ecoAmerica
everyone, every day